Different Types of Corrosion: Microbiologically Influenced Corrosion (MIC), Microbial Corrosion or Biological Corrosion - Causes and Prevention. All Different Forms of Corrosion are explained by NACE certified Corrosion Specialist (#5047). WebCorr provides corrosion consultancy services, corrosion expert witness and corrosion short courses for in-house training, online and distance learning ...

Different Types of Corrosion: Microbiologically Influenced

Community fingerprinting is a set of molecular biology techniques that can be used to quickly profile the diversity of a microbial community. Rather than directly identifying or counting individual cells in an environmental sample, these techniques show how many variants of a gene are present. In general, it is assumed that each different gene variant represents a different type of microbe.

In molecular biology, an amplicon is a piece of DNA or RNA that is the source and/or product of amplification or replication events. It can be formed artificially, using various methods including polymerase chain reactions (PCR) or ligase chain reactions (LCR), or naturally through gene duplication. In this context, amplification refers to the production of one or more copies of a genetic ...
