Non-Destructive Testing and Evaluation of Metals - EOLSS

Nondestructive evaluation (NDE) is a term that is often used interchangeably with NDT. However, technically, NDE is used to describe measurements that are more quantitative in nature.

evaluation of engineering materials or structures without impairing their properties is very important, such as the quality control of the products, failure analysis or prevention of the engineered systems in service. This kind of evaluations can be carried out with Non destructive test (NDT) methods. It is

NON-DESTRUCTIVE TESTING - web.itu.edu.tr

Non-destructive evaluation (NDE) is the examination of an object with technology that does not affect the object's future usefulness, as stated by the American Society of Non-destructive Testing (ASNT) (ASNT, 2012). The basic principle of NDE is simple.

Non-Destructive Testing - an overview | ScienceDirect Topics

Nondestructive evaluation (NDE) is an interdisciplinary field of study which is concerned with the development of analysis techniques and measurement technologies for the quantitative characterization of materials, tissues and structures by noninvasive means.

Nondestructive Evaluation of Additive Manufacturing

Nondestructive testing (NDT) is a wide group of analysis techniques used in science and technology industry to evaluate the properties of a material, component or system without causing damage. The terms nondestructive examination (NDE), nondestructive inspection (NDI), and nondestructive evaluation (NDE) are also commonly used to describe this technology.

Nondestructive Evaluation Laboratory. The Nondestructive Evaluation (NDE) laboratory focuses on design and development of sensors and systems for monitoring and evaluating structural integrity of parts and components.
